

Expression of Interest Form National Occupational Standards

Your Participation in this consultation allows you to voice industry expertise and tell us what knowledge and skills this sub-sector requires.

Ultimately, by inputting into this process you will directly impact on how successful the automotive industry is in creating a productive and skilled workforce.

What are National Occupational Standards?

National Occupational Standards (NOS) ensure that the industry is as productive as possible by defining competency. The NOS communicate what industry experts have deemed essential to be able to carry out certain activities in terms of both knowledge and skills across a number of occupational roles.

Expert working groups will be established for each sub-sector. They will work to develop or revise the standards listed below. In order to ensure that the standards are reflective of the sub-sector, IMI would encourage you to participate in the expert working groups or electronic consultation.
